VoiceDefender™ Gen2: For TEAMS Open Office

We are excited to share something we've been working on at Alango—VoiceDefender™ Gen2. It's designed to provide crystal-clear voice quality for headphones, and the best part? No microphone boom needed. This is a real game-changer for anyone who works in today's busy, open office spaces.

The Real-World Challenge:

Let's face it: open offices can be noisy, and front-facing chatter from colleagues is especially tough for most headsets to handle—especially if you don't want a boom mic in your face. Microsoft Teams Open Office certification is no joke; it demands that headsets cut down distracting voices right in front of you by 15 dB, which tacitly means you need a mic boom. Not anymore!

VoiceDefender™ Gen2 tackles it head-on:

An innovative microphone array—two microphones on each earcup in a unique topology—and a proprietary algorithm specifically designed to deliver clear voice.

Crystal Clear Performance:

- Easy Collaboration: Sound great, even in noisy environments.
- More Productivity: Certified headsets improve teamwork.
- Trustworthy Performance: Teams Open Office certification means you can count on it.
- Plug-and-Play: Just connect and go. No IT headaches.

With VoiceDefender™ Gen2, you really can work, chat, and collaborate as if you're in your own quiet space—even when you're not. This is the next step in headset technology, made for the way we work today.
